

1. Journey - Begin.

A road stretches out before you under a blue sky, winding between rolling hills and mountains. Start on your way to something new. Seek out new places, ideas or relationships. Look to the future.

2. Past - Remember.

Columns, remains of a monument, stand slowly eroding on a cliff above the sea. Remember where you came from. Look to the past and build on what you know.

3. Present - Be mindful.

A waterlily floats serenely on a pond near a stack of perfectly balanced stones. Focus on the now. Find your inner calm.

4. Future - Look ahead.

A butterfly casts a shadow on a swirling dew-strewn plants and flowers seen through a drop of water. Keep your mind on what is to come, and anticipate the unexpected.

5. Guide - Find help.

A lone boat navigates between jagged cliff faces in a stormy strait. It's best to take advice from experience, especially on dark or troubled seas. Seek knowledgeable help.

6. Familiar - Be with family.

Two trees have joined together across a ravine to form one great green canopy. Family comes together from different roots to form a stronger bond. Learn about where you come from to know where you are going.

7. Unknown - Observe your surroundings.

A distant light falls in an old, dark wood. There may be new and unfamiliar situations. Look around at where you are now and be open to new things.

8. Forest - Go outside.

A stand of ancient trees reach up to the green canopy in a wild woodland. Look to the natural world for inspiration and contemplation.

9. Swamp - Look for beauty.

Trees shroud a swampy wood lit by flickering fireflies. There is often beauty in unexpected places if you are open to the experience.

10. Valley - Keep going.

A wild, open valley stretches out ahead. Overhead, a storm heavy with rain approaches. Know that feelings, like the coming storm, are temporary. Put your head down and keep moving forward.

11. Lake - Be still.

Water lilies and lily pads float lazily in a still pond on a calm summer's day. Sometimes it's ok to let go and drift on the calm waters. Recharge and don't worry about what comes next.

12. Canyon - Look at the big picture.

A river meanders through a deep canyon carved over eons by slow flowing water. A tenacious tree clings to the edge. Slow down and stop to get a better view. The way ahead may seem impossible, but you need to know where you are before you can move forward.

13. Mountain - Be patient.

The snow covered peaks of ancient mountains stand resolutely against an ever-changing sky and the seasons below. Mountains have stood over many eons, witnessing every change of seasons and time. Be patient, as change will eventually happen.

14. Desert - Be resourceful.

A dry desert sunset is waning over a harsh landscape and plants clinging stubbornly to life. Resources may be scarce, but life finds a way. Take stock of what is available and make use of what you have. By working with what you have and where you are, you are able to be creative and grow.

15. Crossroads - Trust your intuition.

A road diverges into many paths marked by signs and landmarks growing dim in twilight. Rely on your instincts, but don't wait too long! You need to decide which way to go.

16. Sea - Express your feelings.

A crashing wave breaks the surface of a roiling sea.

Voice your thoughts and feelings. Whatever your inner turmoil, it is important to share what is under the surface.

Share your feelings and thoughts with those around you. Now is not the time to hold back.

17. Shore - Be ready for change.

The waves lap eternally at the shore; ever-changing waves and shifting sand.

Things will change and nothing lasts forever. Focus on what you can do now and be ready to let go of the things that won't last.

18. Island - Reach out if you are lonely.

An island lies just offshore, isolated, but only a short distance away by boat.

You can reconnect with others or remain solitary, it's your choice. You always have the option to find help or a friend.

19. Home - Seek comfort.

A warm cottage is nestled in a chilly winter landscape. A light in the window shows the way home to the fire.

Find the place where you feel safe, secure and cared for. Do what makes you feel good.

20. Cave - Prepare.

A darkening landscape leads into a mysterious cave, offering shelter from the storm but also revealing hints of the past within.

As you make your way deeper you may find hints of what was and what may be. Be ready for what may come.

21. Library - Read.

In the dark library, we see the light of knowledge.

Be open to learning, research and revelation. There is much to know if you apply yourself to find the answers.

22. Earth - Act now.

A determined plant pushes through the dry and barren earth.

Even though it's dry now, it's time to make an effort and grow. There is hope of rain in the future.

Go forward while there is time, because the weather may change soon and there may not be a better time to emerge.

23. Fire - Let it go.

A fire burns in the dark night, consuming the wood. It illuminates the forest, but obscures the stars.

The energy at hand could easily get out of control and turn into misunderstanding. Like the smoke, let misconceptions and volatile ideas dissipate.

24. Rain - Find shelter.

As the sun sets, a rainstorm pours down through the mountains and floods the valley below.

Sudden events can be overwhelming without a safe place to hide. Surround yourself with people who can offer help or assistance.

25. Wind - Hold on.

A tree lies on its side, blown down by previous storms. Yet, it continues to grow and survive the intemperate weather.

Focus on the task at hand and keep doing what you are doing. It may be difficult at first, but persistence will reward you.

26. Stone - Find your balance.

In the wild landscape, ancient sacred stones stand firm against the tests of time.

Find your balance and be grounded. The landscape around you may change, but you should keep standing.

27. Fog - Wait for clarity.

A fog rolls in from the sea. Covering the hills and shore, it begins to shroud the night sky.

Answers may not reveal themselves right away. If things aren't clear, or easy to read, just be patient and see what happens next.

28. Shadow - Say nothing.

Late in the day, the setting sun casts long shadows on the hills and the stone, changing the colors of the hills.

Keep your secrets and don't show your true self just yet. Things are changing rapidly and the outcome is unclear.

29. Cloud - Relax.

With not a care in the world, a fluffy white cloud slowly drifts across the blue sky.

Like the clouds whose shapes shift and change with every wind, it's best to accept that change is inevitable. You need not be stressed over new things.

30. Storm - Expect a change.

Heralding change, a dark cloud looms on the horizon.

Things are moving quickly, unobserved. Be prepared to hunker down or weather the unknown.

31. Horizon - Look to the distance.

The Sun is leaving for the night and the Moon is tugging at the Sea. The clouds sail to away open spaces.

Take a trip and focus on what is to come. Be forward thinking in your approach.

32. Tree - Be open to ideas.

The moon is over the meadow, shining in the sky at dusk. An ancient tree stands before a newer forest.

Be open to learning and the wisdom of the ages. Be hungry for new thoughts and ideas and think about the world around you.

33. Fawn - Rest.

A doe and fawn rest under a shady tree at the edge of the wood. Morning light bathes the valley.

Step back and let others do the work. Take care of yourself so you can face the world again.

34. Gears - Fix the essentials.

Gears are busy at work in a natural factory, each designed for a purpose and everything is beautifully in its place.

Find out what isn't working and strive to make it better. Sometimes you have to address the little things to make something bigger work.

35. Gold - Be grateful.

A golden sun rises over a dark mountain peak. Its brilliance burns off the fog and illuminates the landscape below.

Appreciate the good things and good fortune that comes your way in life, and reward those who help you along the way.

36. Gravity - Look to the Universe.

Planets and stars and galaxies, in perfect balance, dance together in space. Matter, time and change are eternal forces at work in the cosmos.

Weigh ideas and problems to try and find their true nature. Observe how things naturally work and let that guide you in your actions.

37. Sapling - Begin at the beginning.

A small sapling is finding its way in a dense wood, reaching upward toward sunlight streaming through the canopy above.

Look at the world with a new, fresh perspective. Try to approach problems in a simple, unfettered way.

38. Play - Have fun.

A tire swing hangs from a large tree in a meadow, while overhead small clouds hint at rain and a change in the weather, as do the changing color of the leaves.

Express yourself by doing something fun. Enjoy the moment!

39. Work - Make an effort.

Horses pull a plow in a green and fertile field. It's time for planting.

Stay focused on the tasks at hand and continue to work hard. Your endeavors will pay off and reward you in time.

40. Wisdom - Think.

A mysterious timekeeper observes the changing weather, seasons and landscape.

Secrets of the universe can be approached with observation and contemplation. Seek out and learn from those who know more.

41. Luck - Take a chance.

Mysterious dice are rolled in the chaos, uncountable outcomes left to chance.

Let the randomness of the universe offer help. Win or lose, an answer will present itself.

42. Reason - Question everything.

A muse of logic contemplates the real and the imagined.

Use logic and facts to make up your mind. Don't rely on feelings to make your decision, be pragmatic in your approach.

43. Deception - Move on.

Life presents many changing faces, a tangle of misdirection and unintended consequences.

Don't trust what you can't see. It's best to walk away and not play the game. Move on to more honest endeavors.

44. Truth - Be honest.

A single bright star shines above a dark wintery mountain, illuminating the frozen peaks below.

We may not expect or want to see what is really growing around us. The truth will often find its way into the light where it can't be ignored.

45. Nova - Be humble.

A burst of light streams across the universe to be seen a hundred million light-years away. Events are observed eons after they happen.

Be grateful for the attention you receive, as it may be insincere or fleeting.

46. Solitary - Look within.

A lone tree sits on an island of rock above a dark sea.

Focus on what is important to you. Get away from distractions and the crowd and make up your own mind.

47. Crowd - Stay together.

A dense grove of trees stands on a hill above a valley.

Join with the group and go with the flow. Enjoy the company of others while you are growing.

48. Day - Welcome the new.

Emerging from behind a cloud, the sun bathes the landscape in golden light.

Approach each new moment with generosity and an open mind. See what the day brings. The light of a new day can be revealing.

49. Night - Sleep on it.

The ancient tree stands on a precipice, obscuring the light of the Moon. The sea laps at the shore.

It can be hard to see the answers when it's late or you feel overwhelmed. It's best to let go of the events of the day and wait for a new day to illuminate the situation.

50. Dream - Be creative.

A fantastic creature full of myth and imagining wanders the dark, wild woods.

Focus on your emotions and let your imagination run wild. Dream up new things and express your creativity.

51. Chaos - Focus on the details.

Ribbons of light and color converge over a storm, reflecting fragments of colorful clouds and water.

Random and discordant ideas and facts can be overwhelming and seem impossible, with none of the pieces making sense or seeming to fit. It's only by putting them together can they begin to make sense.

52. Wild - Draw another card.

A tangle of plants and jumble of butterflies fly at twilight, taking different directions and paths.

The answers are not always obvious and you may need to seek more information.
